IN THE COURT OF CLAIMS OF OHIO

PAUL ROETHELE :
Plaintiff :
v. : CASE NO. 2005-06261-AD
OHIO DEPT. OF TRANSPORTATION : MEMORANDUM DECISION
Defendant :

FINDINGS OF FACT

{¶ 1} 1) On March 26, 2005, at approximately 12:30 p.m., plaintiff, Paul Roethele, was traveling west on Interstate 70, " a few miles before Exit #71" through a construction zone, when his automobile struck a pavement defect causing damage to the vehicle. Plaintiff described the damage-causing defect as a "very large pothole." This pavement defect was located on a section of Interstate 70 in Clark County.

{¶ 2} 2) Consequently, plaintiff filed this complaint seeking to recover $182.00 for replacement parts costs resulting from the March 26, 2005, incident. Plaintiff has asserted he incurred these damages as a proximate cause of negligence on the part of defendant, Department of Transportation ("DOT"), in maintaining the roadway in a construction zone on Interstate 70 in Clark County. Plaintiff submitted the filing fee with the complaint.

{¶ 3} 3) Defendant explained the area where plaintiff's damage occurred was located within a construction zone under the control of DOT contractor, Kokosing Construction Company, Inc., ("Kokosing"). Additionally, defendant denied liability in this matter based on the allegation that neither DOT nor Kokosing had any knowledge of the pothole plaintiff's vehicle struck. Defendant asserted Kokosing personnel conducted daily inspections of the roadway and promptly patched any potholes that were discovered.

{¶ 4} 4) Plaintiff did not submit any evidence to establish the length of time the pothole was on the roadway prior to the March 26, 2005, property damage event.

{¶ 5} 5) Defendant asserted Kokosing, by contractual agreement, was responsible for maintaining the roadway within the construction area. Therefore, DOT argued Kokosing is the proper party defendant in this action. Defendant implied all duties, such as the duty to inspect, the duty to warn, the duty to maintain, and the duty to repair defects, were delegated when an independent contractor takes control over a particular section of roadway.

{¶ 6} 6) Furthermore, defendant again denied having any notice of the damage-causing pothole. Defendant contended plaintiff failed to introduce evidence proving any requisite notice. The claim is devoid of evidence concerning the actual or constructive notice of the particular pothole by DOT personnel or DOT contractors on March 26, 2005.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

{¶ 7} 1) The duty of DOT to maintain the roadway in a safe drivable condition is not delegable to an independent contractor involved in roadway construction. DOT may bear liability for the negligent acts of an independent contractor charged with roadway construction. See Cowell v. Ohio Department of Transportation (2004), 2003-09343-AD, jud, 2004-Ohio-151.

{¶ 8} 2) Defendant has the duty to maintain its highway in a reasonably safe condition for the motoring public. Knickel v. Ohio Department of Transportation (1976), 49 Ohio App. 2d 335. However, defendant is not an insurer of the safety of its highways. See

Kniskern v. Township of Somerford (1996), 112 Ohio App. 3d 189;
Rhodus v. Ohio Dept. of Transp. (1990), 67 Ohio App. 3d 723.

{¶ 9} 3) In order to recover in any suit involving injury proximately caused by roadway conditions plaintiff must prove either: 1) defendant had actual or constructive notice of the defective condition and failed to respond in a reasonable time or responded in a negligent manner, or 2) that defendant, in a general sense, maintains its highway negligently. Denis v. Department of Transportation (1976), 75-0287-AD.

{¶ 10} 4) Defendant is only liable for roadway conditions of which it has notice, but fails to reasonably correct. Bussard v. Dept. of Transp. (1986), 31 Ohio Misc. 2d 1.

{¶ 11} 5) Plaintiff has not produced any evidence to indicate the length of time the defective condition was present on the roadway prior to the incident forming the basis of this claim. No evidence has been submitted to show defendant had actual notice of the roadway defect. Additionally, the trier of fact is precluded from making an inference of defendant's constructive notice, unless evidence is presented in respect to the time the condition appeared on the roadway. Spires v. Highway Department (1988), 61 Ohio Misc. 2d 262. There is no indication defendant had constructive notice of the defect. Plaintiff has not produced any evidence to infer defendant, in a general sense, maintains its highways negligently or that defendant's acts caused the defective condition. Herlihy v. Ohio Department of Transportation (1999), 99-07011-AD. Therefore, defendant is not liable for any damage plaintiff may have suffered from the roadway defect.

{¶ 12} 6) Plaintiff has not shown, by a preponderance of the evidence, that defendant failed to discharge a duty owed to plaintiff, or that plaintiff's injury was proximately caused by defendant's negligence. Plaintiff failed to show that the damage-causing condition was connected to any conduct under the control of defendant, that defendant was negligent in maintaining the construction area, or that there was any negligence on the part of defendant or its agents. Taylor v. Transportation Dept. (1998), 97-10898-AD; Weininger v. Department of Transportation (1999), 99-10909-AD; Witherell v. Ohio Dept. of Transportation (2000), 2000-04758-AD. Consequently, plaintiff's claim is denied.
